The Sacredness of Some Seals and its Relationship to God Thoth

Dr. Hayam Hafez Rawash

Abstract:

Seals played an important role in ancient Egypt. They were not only used as administrative securing devices for the state bureaucracy, private individual, documents, containers, places, but also as amulets during daily life and in the netherworld. There are some features confirmed the sacredness of seals such as:

• Seals as devices of protection.
• The crime of breaking the seal.
• The seal and sacredness of the place.
• The sacredness of the process of sealing.

Beside the sacredness of seals, there are some texts confirmed the relationship between seals and the god Thoth, the relationship through which it can be suggested that as Thoth was the god of wisdom, magic, and writing, he also the god who was responsible for seals and sealing in ancient Egypt religion.

Introduction:

Seals, these small objects incomparable with great temples, bluff pyramid, huge statues, and the invaluable charming jewelry in ancient Egyptian civilization, however, these small objects are not less important than these all great objects.

In the Ancient Egyptian documents, the seals were called:

\[ htm \] \[ sd\text{yt} \]

Generally, the shapes of seals may be divided into the following groups:

1- Cylindrical shape seals, the earliest type of seal commonly used in Egypt from Pre-Dynastic Period, by the first Intermediate period, cylinders seem to be treated more as a type of amulet rather than as a working symbol or badge of rank.

2- Flat base seals, this group contains, hemi-cylinder and cone shaped seals, button shaped seals, scarab shaped seals, plaques and other miscellaneous forms and signet rings.

Sealing is the impression made by impact of hard engraved surface on a softer material, such as clay. The materials for seals are widely available, for example they were made of wood, bone, clay, or stone\(^9\), (e.g. limestone, steatite ....etc.) or easy to produce faience.\(^{10}\)

Practically ancient Egyptians used seals to stamp scripts onto a papyrus scroll or clay tablet, and they allowed them to quickly write the information needed over and over again without having to handwriting each hieroglyphic signs.\(^{11}\)

The original use of the seals was for securing workshops and store-rooms of food from dishonest servant.\(^{12}\) They were used in tombs, palaces, houses, and temples, in addition, they were used on jars,\(^{13}\) and pots containing food such as honey or wine with might spoil if they were left open.\(^{14}\)

The primary purpose was to reveal any unauthorized tampering with the contents of the letters, pottery vessels, baskets, boxes, sacks, storerooms, or tombs that had been sealed.\(^{15}\) Ownership of documents, jars and others commodities was indicated by means of clay seals, also papyrus rolls were folded and thread which was fastened with a clay seal.\(^{16}\)

Moreover the archaeological context of sealing is firmer indication of date because, once broken, sealing were not reused. Both sealing and seals provide significant chronological data,\(^{17}\) so the labels which were held on the jars, pots, and other objects like funerary furniture considered one of the most important historical resources.\(^{18}\)

Beside its principal practical use, symbolically the Sacredness character of seals is supposed and it is easily proved by their archaeological contexts. Overwhelming associated with female and child burials, Seals were often worn on necklaces or rings and thus functioned as jewelry or amulets, they are usually found at the neck, either alone or at the center of a bead necklace; a number were found clasped in the hand or on a string around one finger, a few others among toilet articles usually in a small toilet box.\(^{19}\)

The seal amulets appear in circular, oval and rectangular shapes, they are made of glazed and unglazed steatite, limestone, faience, pottery, bone, ivory and crystal rock; a number of these seals have small ring-shanks on the back, images on it are carved in several types such as: decorative patterns, individual element as hieroglyphic signs,\(^{20}\) inscriptions with names of kings and gods,\(^{21}\) geometric patterns and floral designs,\(^{22}\) shapes of sacred symbols such as the Djed - pillar, the Ureaeus, the eye of Hours "Udjat",\(^{23}\) and sphinxes,\(^{24}\) a wide variety of human and animal figures; crocodile, hippopotamus, frog, lizard, ape, hawk, cat,\(^{25}\) goats and antelopes, and the most popular seal amulet "scarab beetle ", which was fashioned by its magical powers into amulet, jewelry, and seals.26

Wearing amulets protect the body either in the form of a god, or a seal with a royal name, the meaning of seals, amulets, and votive objects is frequently explained with reference to texts and imagery.27

26 The Egyptians regarded the scarab as a symbol of renewal and rebirth. The beetle was associated closely with the sun god because scarabs roll large balls of dung in which to lay their eggs. Its young were hatched from this ball, a behavior that the Egyptians thought resembled the progression of the sun through the sky from east to west, and this event was seen as an act of spontaneous self-creation, giving the beetle an even stronger association with the sun god’s creative force. The scarab pushing its ball was an earthly manifestation of the sun god Re as young sun god, known as Khepri, "the god of creation", he brought light and life to the earth. The first documented use of scarab (dung beetle) by the ancient Egyptians in the early First Dynasty ,Scarab amulets were used for their magical rejuvenating properties by both the living and the dead. Scarabs were used by living individuals as seals from the start of the Middle Kingdom (ca. 2055 BCE) onwards, see: C. Andrews, Amulets of Ancient Egypt.,P.50-60;Id.,Ancient Egyptian Jewelry, p.191-196 ;H.R.Hall, Catalogue of Egyptian Scarabs, etc., in the British Museum,p. 35-524.; for more details see: J. Probably using seals as amulets appeared as a result to some beliefs according to ancient Egyptian religion, such as:

1- The ancient Egyptians believed that each human consisted of essential entities, \(ht, k3, b3, \, 3h, \, s\, wt \, ,ib\) and \(rn\), and to enjoy the afterlife, some of these elements had to be sustained and protected from harm\(^{28}\). One of these elements was "\(rn\) "which means "Name and reputation ", it was closely bound up with magic\(^{29}\), it was believed that knowledge of somebody's name gave one insight into his being and power over him;\(^{30}\) and the erasing of the name was considered to be equivalent to the destruction, so the deceased was believed to be immortal, and the greatest horror was to have one's name destroyed , and he would live for as long as his name was spoken, which explains why efforts were made to protect it.

Consequently it could be suggested that the main reason of using the seals as amulets depended on bearing one of the essential elements of the person "the name ", which were responsible for securing the person 's afterlife .

There are some texts confirmed the important role of the name in ancient Egyptians beliefs , such as a part of some inscriptions from the tomb of Petosiris ,the high Priest of Thoth in Hermopolis, which said:

"A man is survived when his name is pronounced".\(^{31}\)

2- The seals were buried with the deceased among other materials and tools which were used in magical practices\(^{32}\), in order to ensure his resurrection in the netherworld.

\(^{29}\) W. Budge, Egyptian Magic, p.157-181.
\(^{31}\) M. Lichtheim, Ancient Egyptian Literature, Vol III, p.45f
3-Some seals bore the names of gods which means- according to the Egyptians beliefs- that the knowledge of how to use and to make mention of names which possessed magical powers was a necessity both for the living and the dead. It was believed that if a man knew the name of a god or a demon, and addressed him by it, he was bound to answer him and to do whatever he wished.

So, it could be suggested that seals gained its sacredness character mainly through the power of the illustrated Images and the inscribed names and other material on it, the power that remained effective as long as they physical existed. 33

Some features confirmed the sacredness of seals

• Seals as devices of protection.

Referring to a later papyrus, demonstrates that seals and amulets were used in conjunction with medical treatment and spells for the protection especially of the mother and child, fertility, birth and child-care34; so the majority of them-as mentioned previously- were found in burials of women and children, who wore seals since late Old Kingdom in conjunction with amulets and beads strung on necklaces, whereas men wore them no earlier than the beginning of the Middle Kingdom.35 Concludes the seals in burials of women and children were understood to function as part of amulets as opposed to administrative devices when found in male burials.36 Seals and amulets were worn on the body during lifetime and populated the dead body in the burial for protection.37

36 C. Geertz, Thick Description: Toward an Interpretative Theory of Culture, in C. Geertz, The Interpretation of Cultures, p.3ff.
There are some texts confirmed the sacredness character of seals as devices of protection, for instance a hymn that describes the creator god Amon-Re in the role of a magician states that "Anything harmful is under his seal". The harmful forces would be unable to pass this symbol of divine authority and images of hostile forces might be placed in sealed boxes to restrain them. One of the rites performed in temples was known as The Book of Sealing the Mouths of the Enemy. Some anti-venom spells promise to seal the mouths of poisonous snakes. Sometimes it might be desirable to "seal" the magician or a patient to prevent harmful forces from entering them. Symbolic sealing of the seven natural orifices of the body is mentioned in texts of the late first millennium BC. The gesture of laying a hand on the patient is sometimes linked with sealing. One spell to safeguard a child promises "My hand is on you, my seal is your protection".38

• The crime of breaking the seal:

In the papyrus of Imhotep son of Pshentohe from the Ptolemaic Period mentioned that the breaking of the seal regarded as a misdeed as which the god of evil Seth had done, that among his many misdeeds he was accused of breaking the seal, so the texts said that breaking the seal was a crime caused the punishment by the god Re and destroying the b3 , without which the person could not get resurrection in the after world,39 as follows:

"you have opened the secret chest (coffin) which is in Heliopolis in order to see what was in it ,(although) it had been sealed with the seal of seventy-seven deities …Re smites (you on) your head ,he will destroy your b3".40

38 G. Pinch, Magic in Ancient Egypt, p. 84.
40 See papyrus of Imhotep son of Pshentohe, New York, MMA 35,9.21,3; J. L. Foster, Ancient Egyptian Literature, p. 240; J. C. Goyon, Le Papyrus d’Imoathés, Fils de Psintaës
Consequently the deceased had to keep seals from damage in order to secure his b3, by which he would secure his resurrection in the after world.

The seal and sacredness of the place:

It could be suggested that a sealed place had its sacredness as a result that breaking the seal was regarded as a crime which caused the punishment of the god and destroying the b3 in the afterlife. There is a text from the victory stela of king Piye from the temple of Amon at Napata (Cairo JE48862, 47086-47089)\(^41\) cleared that sealing any place with a seal donate this place a specific sanctity and a special sacredness, as after sealing any place no one can enter it even kings themselves as the king Piye said when he visited sanctuaries of Heliopolis:\(^42\)

\(^{42}\)Urk,III,39,5-16
"Breaking the (seal of) the bolts, opening the double doors, beholding his father Re in the holy compound of pyramidion, the morning bark of Re and the evening bark of Atum closing the double doors, applying the clay, and sealing with the king's own seal. He charged the priests: I have proved (examined) the seal; No other shall enter in to it, of all the kings who shall arise." 44

43 Due to the importance of the seals there were some titles attached to both royal and divine seals such as: "sdwty-bity" and "htm-bity ", "The seal bearer "it was one of the most common convental title, For more about the title see:S.Quirke,"The Regular Titles of the Late Middle Kingdom", p.123; M. Baud, Famille royale et pouvoirsous l'Ancien Égyptien, p. 241; W. Grajetzki, "Die höchsten Beamten der ägyptischen Zentralverwaltung Zur Zeit des Mittleren Reiches: prosopographie, Titel und Titelreihen", Acht Schriften zur Ägyptologie 2, p.107, 114-115; S. Quirke, Titles and Bureaux of Egypt 1850-1700 BC, Egyptology I, p.6; O.Berlev, "Contemporary of King Sewa H – EN – RE", p.109; PM V,231,235, 240; E. P. Uphill, Brief Communications, p.250.

The title" sdwty-ntr" and "htm-ntr" "Divine Sealer" it was attached to service of various gods as 'm nsw nb 'h.t (y). f(y).

•The sacredness of the process of sealing:

The demotic Insinger papyrus\(^{45}\) makes an admonition from speaking during the process of sealing, which refers to the holiness of the process of sealing alike other religious rites. The writer of papyrus mentioned that instruction: "Don’t cheat at the time of sealing ".\(^{46}\)

The relationship between the seals and the god Thoth

There are many texts confirmed the relationship between seals and the god Thoth such as:

• According to Spell 8 from book of the dead\(^{47}\) the god Thoth was not only responsible to seals during daily life but also in the netherworld, and he was responsible to seal the deceased’ head as follows:

\text{wn n.i wnyw htm tp.i Dhwy ikr}

Open to me (O), Shmounein\(^{48}\), seal my head, O, the great Thoth.

Sealing the head of the deceased probably refers symbolically that the god Thoth put all his knowledge of writings, magic and secrets in it, the knowledge by which the closed doors of netherworld would be opened to the deceased, and also helped him in accessing its hazards. There are many texts Consolidate this assumption, for instance some spells from book of the dead

\(^{48}\) Hermopolis is "Shmounein" in Coptic rendering, see M. Verner, \textit{Temples of the World: Sanctuaries, Cult, and Mysteries of Ancient Egypt}, p.149; also there are many texts related between \textit{Dhwty} and the eight spirits of Hermopolis for example chapter 114 from book of the dead see: \textit{BD}, II,109; R.O. Faulkner. \textit{The Ancient Egyptian Book of the Dead}, P.113.
which confirmed that the god Thoth had all knowledge, writings, magic and secrets, and he can hide them from all people.\footnote{BD ,II, ch.CXVI,111-112; BD ,III,ch.CLXX,52;R.O. Faulkner. The Ancient Egyptian Book of the Dead, P.170; D. Kurth,"Thot", LÄ IV, p .497-523.}

- A part of papyrus Setne I,12-14 mentioned that the deceased would charm the netherworld when he recite a spell which Thoth wrote with his own hand, as follows:

"I will have you taken to the place where that Thoth wrote with his own hand.....two spells are written in it. When you recite the first spell, you will ] charm the sky, the earth, the netherworld".\footnote{CT, II, 159; R.O. Faulkner. The Ancient Egyptian Coffin Texts, I , 116.}

- According to spell 134\footnote{CT, VI, 278;R.O.Faulkner. The Ancient Egyptian Coffin Texts, II, 228.} of coffin text the god Thoth was responsible to seal the decrees as follows:

\begin{quote}
\textit{-Iw dd n. Dhwty r.i htm .(i)wd di.(tw) n.k.}
\end{quote}

"Thoth has said to me "I seal the decree which is given to you".\footnote{M. J. Raven, Egyptian Magic the Quest for Thoth Book of Secrets,p.75.}

- According to Spell 657 of coffin text\footnote{CT, VI, 278;R.O.Faulkner. The Ancient Egyptian Coffin Texts, II, 228.} the house of Thoth is the place where letters was sealed in as follows:
pr md3t m pr R5 sd3wt m pr Dhwty sh3.n.i hk3w nb(w) nt (i) m ht.i tn.

The letter goes out from the house of Re, having been sealed in the house of Thoth, and I have called to mind all the magic which is in this my belly".

Probably the relationship between the god Thoth and the seals came from both the relationship between the seals and writing, and the close relationship between the god Thoth and magic, writing, and all its affections, including seals, as he was the god of writing, the creator of language, and the inventor of hieroglyphic writing, so he was the patron deity of scribes, and he was described in many texts as the skilled scribe such as:

"Ink Dhwty sš-ikr."

"I am Thoth the skilled scribe".

Thoth was illustrated holding the script’tools, and he was regarded as the sealer of medical texts in late periods.

56 L. Spence, Myths and Legends of Ancient Egypt, p.106.
57 Wb, III, 351, 18-21.
According to Clement of Alexandria, the Egyptians had forty-two secret books of wisdom, written by Hermes (Thoth), which were kept in temples, and included collections of laws, hymns and rituals, books about the gods and the training of priests, and works on astrology, cosmology, geography and medicine.\textsuperscript{58}

According to Egyptian mythology Thoth apparently wrote a lot, and all his writings were put into a book called 'the Book of Thoth'. It apparently had a great sum of secrets of the universe in it, apparently if you read it you would get awesome magical powers, but you would also be troubled by a life filled with disaster.

Beside the texts which confirmed the relationship between seals and the god Thoth, there are many seals and impressions of seals engraved either with the symbols of the god Thoth such as a small plaque with two monkeys on its back Egyptian Museum\textsuperscript{59} or with the name of the god Thoth, especially some clay seals from Tuna al-Gebel necropolis which accumulate between the sacred relationship between the god Thoth and seals, and the god Thoth's function as the main god at "Hermopolis Magna" Tuna al-Gebel.

Comment:

- These seals were used in sealing the demotic documents from the Tuna al-Gebel necropolis which are kept in the Mallawi Museum, especially sealed demotic papyri and letters written on papyrus from the subterranean galleries of the sacred animals (Gallery C).\(^{63}\)

- They were found inside the oldest Gallery "D", which is dated -in general - to the Saite period (664-525 B.C.),\(^{64}\) specifically the reign of the king Nekau the son of Psametik (610-595),\(^{65}\) except a part from its northern area of G-D-D, which dated to the Persian period.\(^{66}\)

Therefore these seals could be dated either to the Saite period,\(^{67}\) or the Persian, while I suggest that they are dated to the Saite period, by comparison the way of writing the hieroglyphic writing , especially the way of writing the cartouche of the pharaoh "Nekau"(\(\text{Nekau}\)) and his title ‘Wehem-Ib-Re’ with some impressions of seals engraved with the name of Nekau and his title‘Wehem-Ib-Re’, which are dated to the Saite period (the XXVIth Dynasty ) , such as Plaster outer Jar-sealing with four impressions of a seal engraving with the name of Nekau from Tell Dafnah, Handle of a jar on which is impressed a seal in form of a plumed and disked cartouche, containing the name of Nekau from Tell Dafnah, and a blue faience cartouche-plaque, inscribed on the obverse ‘king of upper and lower Egypt ‘Wehem-Ib-Re, son of the sun Nekau’.

- The god Thoth is described here "Dhwty ⲡ Ⲣ nb Hmnw", "Thoth, the twice great, lord of Hermopolis", the most popular epithet of the god Thoth in Hermopolis, while his famous epithets were the lord of the Ogdoad, and "the great triple", and the great five-times.

In sum, seals played an important role in ancient Egypt. They were not only used as administrative securing devices for the state bureaucracy, private individual, documents, containers, places, but also they had a sacredness character which is confirmed by using them as protective amulets during daily life and in the netherworld, the relationship between seals and sacredness of places, and the sacredness of the process of sealing itself.

Additionally there are some texts confirmed the relationship between seals and the god Thoth, the relationship through which it could be suggested that as Thoth was the god of wisdom, magic, and writing, he also the god who was responsible for seals and sealing in ancient Egyptian religion.

قدسية بعض الأختام وعلاقتها بالمعبد جحوتي

د. هيام حافظ رواش

لعبت الأختام دوراً هاماً في مصر القديمة، فالأختام لم تكن تستخدم فقط لإستخداماً إدارياً كأدوات لتأمين الممتلكات الحكومية والخاصة، والوثائق، والأماكن ولكنها استُخدمت أيضاً كتمائم سواء في الحياة الدنيا أو في الحياة الآخرة. وقد توافر لدينا بعض الدلائل التي تؤكد على قدسية الأختام في مصر القديمة منها على سبيل المثال:

- الأختام كتمائم للحماية.
- جريمة فض الختم.
- الختم وقدسية المكان.
- قدسية عملية الختم.

والحقيقة أن الأختام بالإضافة إلى قدسية الأختام، هناك بعض النصوص التي توضح لنا العلاقة الوثيقة بينها وبين المعبد جحوتي، تلك العلاقة التي تجعلنا نفترض أن أنت إلى جانب دور الرئيسي للمعبد جحوتي كمعبد للحِكمة، السحر، والكتابة، فقد كان أيضاً هو المعبد المسؤول عن عملية الختم والأختام في العقيدة المصرية القديمة.

قدسية، الأختام، عملية الختم، تمائم، حماية، تأمين، علاقة، المعبد جحوتي.
