ABSTRACT

معارضة حكم قضائي من إقليم أوكسيرينخوس

الورقة البحثية الحالية هي عبارة عن نشر بردية وثائقية يونانية غير منشورة من متحف المصري بالقاهرة، رقم الزجاج ١٠٢ للسجل الخاص ٣٠٤٩ تحت رقم الجرد ٢٣٨. هذه البردية تأتي من سينيبطا (إقليم أوكسيرينخوس) وتعود إلى النصف الأول من القرن الثالث الميلادي. نص هذه البردية هو معارضة حكم قضائي. كانت معارضة حكم قضائي عبارة عن رداً على التماس، أو على الإجراءات القانونية التي أعقبت التماس، وفي العصر الروماني عادة ما يتخذ شكل بيان مضاد، والذي كان مطلوباً قانونياً من المدعى عليه أنه ينوي الطعن في القضية. كان نظام الميراث المطبق في مصر الرومانية معقداً حيث كان هناك العديد من الأنظمة القانونية وكان الأشخاص من أعراق مختلفة يخضعون لتشريعات مختلفة. تنشأ الخلافات المتعلقة بالميراث في الالتماسات: يشتكى مقدم الالتماس من أن المتهم يدعى ملكية تخصه. يتكون الميراث في الغالب من الأرض أو المنازل. غالباً ما يكون المتهم أحد أفراد عائلة مقدم الالتماس. في هذه الحالة، نتج الالتماس عن نزاع عائلي حيث لم يتمكن الطرفان من تسوية خلافتهما في الحكم المحلي ويلجأ الملتمسون إلى السلطات لتأكيد حقوقهم، بعد تلقي الإجراءات القانوني (قرار المحكمة)، يحق للأطراف رفع اعتراضات إلى وزير العدل خلال فترة عشرة أيام. تحتوي ظهر البردية على تفاصيل حول التحضير لمهرجان أو مناسبة، مثل توصيل النبيذ واستئجار قاعة مأدبة. قدمت البردية على النحو التالي: وصف عام لمحتويات البردية، أبعاد البردي بالسنتيمتر، عدد أسطر النص، الأسهم تشير إلى اتجاه الكتابة بالنسبة إلى سطح البردية، ثم نسخ النص اليوناني، وترجمة النص اليوناني إلى الإنجليزية والتعليق على أسطر البردية.

[EN] The current paper is an edition of unpublished Greek documentary papyrus from Cairo Museum under glass 102 of the S (pecial) R (egister) Nr^o. 3049 with inv^o. 238. This papyrus is from Seneptra (Oxyrhynchite nome) and dates back to the first half of the third century AD. This papyrus text is a counter-plea (ἀντίρρησης). The counter-plea was a reply to a petition, or to the legal proceedings following on a petition, and in the Roman period commonly took the form of a counter statement, which was legally required from the defendant that he intended to contest the case. The inheritance system applied in Roman Egypt was complex, as there were several legal systems, and people of different ethnicity were subjected to different legislation. The conflicts concerning inheritance occur in the petitions. The petitioner complains that the accused claims property that belongs to her/him by legacy. The inheritances mostly consist of land and/or houses. Often the accused is a member of the petitioner's family. In this case, the petition results from a family quarrel, where the parties could not sort out their differences within the domestic context and the petitioners turn to the authorities to assert their rights. After receiving the legal proceeding (decision of the court), the parties have the right to raise objections with the ἀρχιδικαστής within ten days. The verso contains details about the preparation for a festival or an occasion, such as the delivery of wine and a lease of a banqueting hall. The papyrus has been presented as follows: a general description of the contents of the papyrus, dimensions of the papyrus in centimeters, number of lines of text, arrows indicating the direction of writing relative to that of papyrus surface, a transcription of the Greek text, English translation and extensive commentary.

KEYWORDS: Greek, Papyri, Roman, Egypt, inheritance, disputes, wine, festival.

I. INTRODUCTION

This papyrus is an edition of unpublished Greek documentary papyrus from Cairo Egyptian Museum under glass 102 of the S (pecial) R (egister) N^o. 3049 with inv^o. 238 [FIGURE 1]; the papyrus is from Senepsta (Oxyrhynchiet).

II. DESCRIPTION

The papyrus is of medium brown color, and it is regularly cut off on the left and right parts of the papyrus, mutilated and suffers from some holes because of worms. It is written by a semi-cursive hand. The writing is on the recto, along the fibers, in 10 lines, in dark and clear ink, by a legible hand. The top margin is 2 cm. Two vertical folds, across the fibers, beginning from the right side are visible. The widths of the successive folds are 2 cm, and 1 cm. The text on the verso is written by a semi-cursive hand, across the fibers, in 8 lines. There are remains of two margins on the verso; at the top is 2 cm and below is 2.5 cm. Two vertical folds, across the fibers, beginning from the right side are visible; the widths of the successive folds are 1 cm and 2 cm.

Date

On paleographical grounds, it can be dated back to the first half of the third century AD¹. The text of this papyrus is a counter-plea (ἀντίρρησις), the counter-plea was a reply to a petition, or to the legal proceedings following a petition, and in the Roman period commonly took the form of a counter statement, which was legally required from the defendant that he intended to contest the case. The inheritance system applied in Roman Egypt was complex, as there were several legal systems and people of different ethnicity were subjected to different legislation. The conflicts concerning inheritance occur in the petitions. The petitioner complains that the accused claims property that belongs to her/him by legacy. The inheritances consist of mostly land and/or houses. Often the accused is a member of the petitioner's family. In this case, the petition results from a family quarrel, where the parties could not sort out their differences within the domestic context and the petitioners turn to the authorities to assert their rights. Emperor Hadrian decided that Roman soldiers grant children conceived during their fathers' military service the right to inherit: in the absence of a testament of a decedent. Emperor Hadrian addressed a letter to the prefect of Egypt Q.

Rammius Martialis. In this letter, the Emperor granted the illegitimate children of soldiers their possession to the kinsmen by blood². After receiving the legal proceeding (decision of the court), the parties had the right to raise objections with the ἀρχιδικαστής within ten days³. The structure of the counter-plea can be represented as follows:

¹ For paleographical parallels, see: P. Oxy. XLVII 3347 (216-217 AD, census return); Chla XI 486= SB I 1010 (Oxy. 249 AD, succession to the inheritance); SB VI 9298 (Oxyrhynchus, 249 AD, Agnitio bonorum possessionis). For images: <http://papyri.info/ddbdp/>.

*Those who were begotten during the period of (their fathers') military service are not legitimate heirs of their fathers;
I order that they be allowed to claim possession of the property in accordance with that portion of the edict that grants this possession to the kinsmen by blood.*

III. COMMENTARY

It is impossible to calculate that the original sheet was missing at the right and the left.

1. 1: Εὐτυ]χοῦς Σεβαστ[οῦ: This line contains the titles Εὐτυχοῦς Σεβαστοῦ, therefore. It is difficult to define the emperor's name. These titles were found along with titles of four Roman emperors Caracalla, Elagabalus, Severus Alexander, and Gordian III. This title had appeared in the reign of the emperor Caracalla⁵.

Under the reign of the emperor Elagabalus⁶.

The second possibility; Aurelius Didymus could be the ex-exegetes¹². The third possibility; Aurelius Didymus could be the ex-exegetes, senator, and administrator of the corps of the city of Oxyrhynchus¹³.

[συμπ]όσιον: The συμπόσιον from the verb συμπίνειν (to drink together) was a banquet that took place after the meal, when drinking for pleasure was accompanied by music, or dancing. The συμπόσιον was rented to be used as banqueting hall. Husson has shown that in some leases the συμπόσιον no longer indicates a dining room, but had a broader meaning, that of an apartment, since it included other rooms, such as a κέλλα (store), or a κοιτών (bedroom)²⁸.

IV. CONCLUSION

The conclusion covers the following:

- The papyrus offers new insight on the counter-plea, which was legally required from the defendant that he intended to contest the case.
- The inheritance system applied in Roman Egypt was complex.
- The inheritances mostly consist of land and/or houses.
- Often the accused is a member of the petitioner's family.
- The papyrus gives papyrological evidence for Senepsta (Oxyrhynchite).
